

Lesson 1.3 Notice Features

Let's go to the Tenders Electronic Daily website and click on the link to the latest official journal supplement in the middle. Now that the official journal supplement is open, we will set a few filters. Firstly, we'll filter the results by business opportunity, choosing competition, which is for tender requests still open.

Then we will filter by country of buyer, firstly by European Union and then by country, Ireland. We choose Ireland because the information will more likely be in English than say Hungary. At the top of the page under search results, you will now see the filters applied.

Click on the notices number at the top of the list to open the notice. When you go through this exercise, this will be different from the one shown as you will have opened the supplement of a different day. Scrolling slowly through the notice, you will see the different sections it contains and the information given in each.

A section menu is provided on the left hand side. There is information on the buyer, the procedure, lots, which are effectively packages of delivery, organisations, note here that this tender was submitted via an e-sender, European Dynamics, and notice information. Note that in section 5.1.12, the tendering organisation provides a document upload location.

Have a look on the live official journal supplement website ted.europa.eu and when you have finished, click on the button to progress to the next section.
